

Relaxing Reading

With wood and tin from bomb crates—and a bit of ingenuity—members of a Fifteenth Air Force B-24 unit, based in Italy in World War II, built a modest chateau of their own. Enjoying precious leisure time are (l-r) SSgt. Frank Marciano, Cpl. Pierre Berard, and Cpl. Joseph Brasile, who is reading an early edition of Air Force Magazine. At the time, it was still “The Of-

icial Service Journal of the US Army Air Forces.”
