

Global Hawk Program
Information Paper

The USD(AT&L) convened a Defense Acquisition Board (DAB) on November 18, 2005 to review the Global Hawk program. The board members agreed that this program is critical to providing a persistent Intelligence, Surveillance, and Reconnaissance (ISR) capability to the warfighter. Mr. Krieg agreed to a proposed approach for how the program will proceed and encouraged the Air Force to continue to instill program stability. He also challenged the acquisition community to adopt a more agile strategy with a goal to provide needed capability to the warfighter as soon as possible, consistent with an appropriate level of demonstrated system performance.
